traditional critics of film adaptation generally assumed a that the written text is better than the film adaptation because the plot is more intricate and the language richer when pictorial images do not intrude b that films are better when particularly faithful to the original c that authors do not make good script writers and should not sully their imagination by writing film scripts d and often that american films lack the complexity of authored texts because they are sourced out of hollywood the faithfulness view has by and large disappeared and intertextuality is now a generally received notion but the field still lacks studies with a postmodern methodology and lens exploring hollywood feature films as well as small studio productions adaptation theory and criticism explores the intertextuality of a dozen films through a series of case studies introduced through discussions of postmodern methodology and practice providing the reader with informative background on theories of film adaptation as well as carefully articulated postmodern methodology and issues gordon slethaug includes several case studies of major hollywood productions and small studio films some of which have been discussed before age of innocence gangs of new york and do the right thing and some that have received lesser consideration six degrees of separation smoke signals broken flowers and various snow white narratives including enchanted mirror mirror and snow white and the huntsman useful for both film and literary studies students adaptation theory and criticism cogently combines the existing scholarship and uses previous theories to engage readers to think about the current state of american literature and film women and gender in chinese martial arts films of the new millennium by ya chen chen is an excavation of underexposed gender issues focusing mainly on contradictory and troubled feminism in the film narratives in the cinematic world of martial arts films one can easily find representations of women of ancient china released from the constraints of patriarchal social order to revel in a dreamlike space of their own they can develop themselves protect themselves and even defeat or conquer men this world not only frees women from the convention of foot binding but it also unbinds them in terms of education critical thinking talent ambition opportunities to socialize with different men and the freedom or right to both choose their spouse and decide their own fate chen calls this phenomenon chinese cinematic martial arts feminism the liberation is never sustaining or complete however chen reveals the presence of a glass ceiling marking the maximal exercise of feminism and women s rights which the patriarchal order is willing to accept as such these films are not to be seen as celebrations of feminist liberation but as enunciations of the patriarchal authority that suffuses chinese cinematic martial arts feminism the film narratives under examination include crouching tiger hidden dragon directed by ang lee hero zhang yimou house of the flying daggers zhang yimou seven swords tsui hark the promise chen kaige the banquet feng xiaogang and curst of the golden flower zhang yimou chen also touches upon the plots of two of the earliest award winning chinese martial arts films a touch of zen and legend of the mountain both directed by king hu the all new essays in this book discuss black cultural retellings of traditional european fairy tales the representation of black protagonists in such tales helps to shape children s ideas about themselves and the world beyond which can ignite a will to read books representing diverse characters the need for a multicultural text set which includes the multiplicity of cultures within the black diaspora is discussed the tales referenced in the text are rich in perspective they are aesop s fables cinderella rapunzel and ananse readers will see that stories from black perspectives adhere to the dictates of traditional literary conventions while still steeped in literary traditions traceable to africa or the diaspora
